

The application and the predictive factors of constraint induced movement therapy in early post stroke patients: results from a multicentric Italian study